Erratum

In the May 2002 issue, on page 524, the first line in the third paragraph under the section “Energy, power, fluence, and irradiance” should read: “Power density is a measurement of the rate of work within a defined area and is generally reported as W/cm², with the area being defined by the beam spot size (πr²) at the tissue surface.”